

I read through your poems, and although I enjoy them all, there are some that strongly touched me:

- When you told me you loved me (May 4, 1991). I wonder how much somebody must love somebody to get the Palma eruption?

- 1992 South Africa

- A woman's survival kit 2

But what I really, really loved was the Year 1995: Mature 1995, Angel dust, They buried the moon, Digging at roots, Body, Baba Yaga...

And then the One, that's my absolute favorite, is Nature, and I think should be the title of your compilation: Do rivers cry when their waters flow ?

Laura van den Berg, October 2021